Russian Maneuvers Keep Meeting Alive

Offers New Security Proposal

GENEVA (AP)—The Russians kept alive the European security issue in the deadlock-ed Big Four conference with last-minute proposals Wednesday. They would pull out half the foreign troops in Germany and sign a nonaggression pact between the Eastern and Western military blocks.

By his surprise maneuver, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov committed the conference to return to his security proposals next week after the end of the discussion on the two remaining points on the agenda — disarmament and East-West contacts.

The new offer interrupted attempts by the three Western foreign ministers to end negotiations on the first agenda point—European security and German reunification. Accusing Russia of a "grave breach of the Geneva spirit" for refusing free German elections, they said further discussions on the point would be futile.

Molotov proposed:

1. Reduction of the number of foreign troops in Germany "by, say, 50 per cent." He set no time limit for this. Last week he had proposed that all foreign troops except "strictly limited contingents should withdraw within three months."

2. Reduction of the total armed forces of the Big Four powers by a number equivalent to their troops withdrawn from Germany. He did not quote figures, but such reductions were unofficially estimated at 150,000 for Russia, 125,000 for the United States, 50,000 for Britain, and 30,000 for France.

3. A nonaggression treaty by the 15-nation Atlantic alliance and the seven-nation Western European Union with the Warsaw pact bloc—Russia and six European satellites. Such a treaty was suggested by Premier Nikolai Bulganin at the summit conference but withheld by Molotov from the foreign ministers until Wednesday night.

Molotov sprang into action in the final phase of today's session, the ninth since the conference opened Oct. 27.

Eden Charges Soviet Creates War Tensions

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden Wednesday accused the Soviet Union of creating war tensions in Europe and the Middle East.

The British leader said it was impossible to reconcile Soviet actions with protestations that they wish to end the cold war in the new spirit of Geneva.

Eden denounced attempts to keep Germany divided but reserved his heaviest attack on the Russians for shipping arms to the Arabs.

The Prime Minister gave the traditional outline of British foreign policy at the annual lord mayor's dinner in the City of London.

While describing reports from Geneva as not good, Eden said as a veteran of many negotiations with the Russians that they were not surprising either. And he added, "I have therefore only three comments to make on the present state of discussions at Geneva":

"First, to attempt to keep Germany divided for a further indefinite period, 10 years after the war is ended, adds to the dangers in Europe and is no contribution to peace."

"Secondly, Germany, like other countries, must be free to make her own decision as to her political future by the free voice of her people. In other words, she is entitled to free elections. It is indefensible to hold that free elections cannot take place because the Communist system in East Germany must be preserved."

"Thirdly, the Western nations and Soviet Russia, have reason to recall the experience of past years. Mutual undertakings should therefore be given and taken against any act of aggression in Europe. This is the most effective assurance we have been able to devise. If it can be improved upon, let other suggestions be made."

BET ON BEAVERS TO BUILD DAM

KAMINISTIKWA (AP)—Engineers say beavers can't span the 180-foot width of the Kamin River with a dam but the animals have completed 25 feet and are still building. The beavers have felled 80 trees for their mammoth project and settlers are betting on them. The river is 41 feet deep in the middle and has a swift current.

Demo Hopes For 1956 Gather Momentum

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats drew fresh hope for 1956 Wednesday from scattered election victories that gave them a record-smashing victory in the Kentucky gubernatorial race and pushed them ahead in such battleground states as Pennsylvania, Indiana and Connecticut.

There were some Republican advances too, here and there, but virtually complete returns from Tuesday's state and municipal elections showed a clear net advantage to the Democrats in the matter of organizational strength for next year's presidential election.

France Names New Governor For Morocco

PARIS (AP)—France Wednesday named a new governor for Morocco in expectation that Sultan Mohamed Ben Youssef will return there next week and demand home rule.

The government picked Andre Dubois, a career administrator who was born of French parents in Bone, Algeria. In 16 months as Paris police chief he made a name for himself by silencing noisy auto horns and barring trucks from the capital's narrow streets in busy afternoon hours.

In Kentucky, former Army Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler was elected governor by a landslide approaching 150,000 votes over Republican Edwin R. Denney—despite a bitter primary fight that split the Democratic party.

And in Connecticut Democrats solidified 1954 victories by capturing the city administration of Waterbury—in GOP hands for eight years—and pushing ahead elsewhere in the state's municipal elections.

In other states, results were less conclusive. Democrats scored a net gain of one in New York mayoral races—an outcome claimed by (Continued on Page Eleven)

Bryant, Milam Free Of Charges In Negro Boy Kidnap Case

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—A Lee County grand jury Wednesday declined to indict two white men on charges of kidnapping Emmett Louis Till, 14, Chicago Negro. The decision freed Roy Bryant, 24, and his half brother, J. W. Milam, 36, of all charges in the famous case.

A trial jury in nearby Sumner six weeks ago found the white storekeepers innocent of murdering Till.

Circuit Judge Arthur Jordan announced the grand jury's decision to waiting newsmen after he discharged the 20-man, all white grand jury.

Bryant and Milam reportedly were working in nearby cotton fields and could not be reached immediately for comment.

The grand jury's action canceled the $10,000 bonds each posted for freedom while waiting for a decision in the kidnapping case.

The half brothers were charged in Leflore County with kidnapping last Aug. 28 after Mose Wright, 64, Till's sharecropper uncle, and two white men took Till away for allegedly making obscene remarks

Woodward Leaves Third Of Millions In Trust For Wife

NEW YORK (AP)—William Woodward Jr. left a third of his millions in trust for the wife who shot him, but earmarked them eventually for their two sons. The widow got only $2,500 in cash.

Woodward's will disposing of an estimated 10-million-dollar estate was filed today in surrogate's court.

The 35-year-old sportsman was shot to death Oct. 30 by his wife, Ann, a blonde former showgirl. She said she shot him accidentally after fear of a prowler led her to fire a shotgun in their darkened Oyster Bay, N.Y., home.

The will was dated Dec. 14, 1948. That was five years before Woodward inherited Belair Stud, the family's noted Maryland thoroughbred stable. As a result, there is no provision in the will covering the stable or its crack 3-year-old money winner, Nashua.

A spokesman for the family said it will be up to the trustees of the estate to decide whether to continue operation of Belair Stud in behalf of the Woodwards or to sell it. Trustees are attorney John W. Ludewig of Maywood, N.J., and the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co.

Carpenter On Trial For Murder Starts Hunger Strike

CHICAGO (AP)—Richard Carpenter, gun slinger on trial on a charge of murdering a detective, has started a hunger strike.

His fasting—lastest in a series of bizarre actions—was reported late Wednesday by Warden Jack Johnson of the Cook County Jail. The warden said the desperado has refused to eat meals since noon Tuesday.

Carpenter has appeared at his trial since it began Monday wearing a beard and jail dungarees. Once he leaped himself on the floor. Again he leaped into the air like a kangaroo.

He has offered no explanation of his screwball antics. But Wednesday one of the defense attorneys, Daniel C. Ahern, stated in his opening statement:

"Carpenter is not criminally responsible for his behavior because of his mental condition. This will be our primary defense."

Another defense attorney, Kevin Gillogly, said Carpenter has lost 30 pounds since he was captured Aug. 18 in the wild winds of one of Chicago's biggest manholes. Gillogly also told newsmen Carpenter has not spoken to his lawyers for three weeks.

Carpenter, 26, is being tried for the slaying of Detective William J. Murphy Aug. 15 in the Roosevelt Road subway station. Murphy was hunting him for a string of robbers.

Political Fur Will Fly In California If Eisenhower Doesn't Run In '56

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It wasn't so long ago that people would have chucked politely at the suggestion that Goodie Knight would have anything to say about choosing the next Republican candidate for President.

That was before Goodwin J. Knight became governor in October 1953 and set out to take over state Republican leadership. As lieutenant governor, his chances of displacing Gov. Earl Warren seemed remote. His party influence was close to zero.

But today, in the uncertain dawn of a presidential election year, Knight is the central figure in a big name, high stakes fight for state GOP control.

The tense struggle for power extends far beyond a state contest in view of the President's illness. For if Eisenhower doesn't run, one of the party's "embarrassing surplus of strong men" in California could be a serious contender for the nomination.

There were three to begin with: Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 43; Senate Minority Leader William F. Knowland, 47; and Chief Justice Warren, 64, who says emphatically he is not a candidate.

Now there are four: Knight, 58, best known as Goodie to Californians, is clamoring for attention.

The husky, irrepressible governor, whose bubbling enthusiasm often gets him into political hot water, has split state Republicans into two warring camps by his undisguised coolness to Nixon. His statements, it's clear, are no slip of the tongue.

Knight is outshone nationally by his three fellow Californians. In his own considerable backyard, though, backed by tradition and the blessings of state patronage, he commands a somewhat uneasy hold on the party machinery.

His position as titular head of the GOP may not be as firm as has intensified the prayers of Rep. Earl Warren's in his campaigning days. It was strong enough, with the active help of Sen. Knowland and of former Warren supporters, to throw back a pro-Nixon attempt to seize control as far back as August 1954.

Significantly, too, only a single dissenting vote was reported when Nixon might do.

Mind you, "I am not feuding or fighting with the vice president, nor he with me," Knight remarked during an Eastern speaking tour in October. But in the same televised interview in New York he declared he believes a Knight delegation ticket would defeat a slate committed to Nixon.

Confounding those who have pictured Knight in a "stop Nixon" role, the governor said that if the convention began to swing to the vice president, he would not try to hold out the California vote against him.

Such statements are taken as a softening of Knight's public attitude toward Nixon in an effort to placate his party critics. A Los Angeles newspaper poll may or may not have something to do with it, too. It showed 60 per cent of state Republican leaders for Nixon, only 22 per cent for Knight.

Knight, who'll be 59 Dec. 9, once referred to the vice president in an interview as "The Boy." He insists he has nothing against Nixon personally, although his own statements have indicated otherwise.

Nixon supporters dismiss the governor as a "political joke" with "fantastic pretensions" to be president.

Simple convention arithmetic demands Nixon show strength in his home state if he expects to retain his place on an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket or try for the presidential nomination. Knight has him in a ticklish spot.

Nixon would court disaster if he entered the presidential primary in California and lost. His prestige unquestionably would suffer if he defeated Knight by only a small margin. Each side asserts it could win; it's difficult to assess their chances so far in advance.

Warren, with his vote-getting ability and popularity with Democrats and Knowland, a solid favorite of many Republicans, are not being overlooked in California as possible candidates.

The governor has made it plain he intends to file his delegation slate in case Eisenhower decides not to run, irrespective of what Nixon might do.

Name Delegates To IAA Meeting In Chicago

Harold Kamm, president of the Morgan County Farm Bureau, Tuesday announced names of farmers who would represent the county as voting delegates to the 41st annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

The meeting of the statewide Farm Bureau organization will be held Nov. 14-17 at Chicago's Sherman hotel.

Boyce Moore, Clarence Duewer, Lekoy T. Smith and Donald Richardson will be Morgan county's delegates, Kamm said.

They will be among the more than 530 farmers from all parts of Illinois who will approve policies to guide the IAA for the coming year. They will also elect a president, vice president, and seven members of the organization's board of directors.

The delegate body from each of 99 County Farm Bureaus in Illinois consists of the president and one delegate, and one additional voting delegate for each 500 regular members or major fraction thereof. Membership in the IAA now totals more than 203,000.

In addition to these delegates, an expected 5,000 members of Farm Bureau families will attend the meeting. Many of the statewide cooperatives affiliated with the IAA will also hold meetings in conjunction with the IAA convention.

Froman Holtsworth of Eldred, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau, has been named a member of the resolutions committee.

Most Farmers Recommend Congress Place Quotas On Production Unit Basis

Associated Press Farm Reporter

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The government's production control program for major crops may be headed for an overhaul job.

Touring the Western half of the country the past two weeks searching for ideas on how to improve a sagging agricultural economy, the Senate Agriculture Committee heard many farmer complaints that controls are not hitting on all cylinders.

And most members of the committee were inclined to agree. Hence, there is a strong possibility that the next session of Congress may attempt a repair job.

Farmers had in mind marketing quotas on crops such as wheat, cotton, tobacco, rice and peanuts and acreage allotments on corn. The complaints were that the quota system simply is failing to limit production as it should.

The present control system was written into law in 1938. It directed the secretary of agriculture to invoke marketing quotas on any mechanized methods. The crop is of these crops when supplies nearly 14 million bales. Thus de-reached a surplus level as defined spite use of the controls, the crop will pile more cotton on top of a

Quotas require the approval of heavy surplus held by the government at least two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum.

The quotas are designed to limit production to a crop that would position of a man swimming against the current and steadily losing ground.

But it is in the allotting of production shares among individual farms that the program falls down, farmers told the committee.

The department may determine for instance, that a wheat crop of only 850 million bushels is needed. But in doing out production shares, the department does not make allotments in terms of individual farms' share of the 850-million-bushel quota.

Instead, it makes them in terms of acres to be planted. That's what the law requires. This makes it necessary for the department to translate the bushel quota into acres to be planted. It makes this translation on the basis of past national average acre yields.

Thus wheat farmer John Smith in Texas might get an acreage allotment of 250 acres which, on the basis of a past average yield of 12 bushels an acre, would produce a total crop of 3,000 bushels. Theoretically, that would be his total marketing quota.

But suppose farmer Smith applies some extra fertilizer, finds a better-yielding variety to plant and gets a good break from the weather? He could come up with an average yield of 15 bushels an acre or a total crop of 3,750 bushels.

Should he produce more than his quota, he would be required to keep the excess off the market. He could store it under seal, preferably on his farm, for sale under his quota the following year. Such a reserve would come in handy should the following year's crop fall short of the quota. Or, he could come up with an average yield of 15 bushels an acre acreage the equivalent of the previous year's excess production and would his quota be 3,000 or 3,750 bushels?

It would be the total amount he produced, or in this case 3,750 bushels.

Suppose a lot of other farmers did the same thing and came up with bigger crops than their equivalent share of the national quota? The result would be a total crop larger than the intended quota, all eligible for sale without penalty. The control program would have been nullified in part if not wholly.

This is what has been happening under quotas and as a consequence, not much progress has been made in bringing surpluses down.

This year's cotton control program offers a good example of the ineffectiveness of the quota program.

It was designed to limit the crop to around 10 million bales. But because of a combination of good growing weather and heavy use of fertilizers and increased use of these crops when supplies nearly 14 million bales. Thus de-reached a surplus level as defined spite use of the controls, the crop will pile more cotton on top of a

In other words, cotton, wheat and tobacco farmers are in the production to a crop that would position of a man swimming against the current and steadily losing ground.

Farmers agreed that it is nice to come up with big yields under the quota programs, but they realize there is not much chance of prices of these crops rising as long as the surpluses exist.

With this in mind, many farmers recommended that Congress re-write the control law to put quotas on a production unit basis—that is, in terms of bushels in the case of wheat, bales in the case of cotton, 100-pound bags in the case of rice, pounds or tons in the case of peanuts, and pounds in the case of tobacco.

Thus, hypothetical wheat farmer Smith of Texas would get a quota of 3,000 bushels instead of an allotment of 250 acres. It would be up to Smith to determine how many acres he should plant to produce his quota.

Should he produce more than his quota, he would be required to keep the excess off the market. He could store it under seal, preferably on his farm, for sale under his quota the following year. Such a reserve would come in handy should the following year's crop fall short of the quota. Or, he could come up with an average yield of 15 bushels an acre acreage the equivalent of the previous year's excess production and use the saved acreage for something else.

Farmers argued such a change would make controls almost 100 per cent effective.

While the law does not authorize marketing quotas for corn, use of the bushel method could be applied to hold down production of this No. 1 grain crop.

The law attempts to stabilize corn supplies by use of planting allotments assigned growers in designated commercial producing areas. As in the case of the quota crops, the corn allotments are designed to limit production to levels which would not add to existing surpluses. But here again, through use of new and better fertilizer, better hybrid seed and the like, it is possible to boost yields and come up with larger crops than the production goal.

The committee heard few suggestions that Congress change the present penalty provisions for non-compliance with quotas in the case of crops coming under quotas and on corn, which is subject to planting allotments only.

In the case of the quota crops, farmers who overplant acreage allotments lose eligibility for price support aid and must pay a marketing penalty—equal to 50 percent of the parity price of the crop—on excess production from overplantings.

In the case of corn, overplanting makes a grower ineligible for price support, but there is no marketing penalty.

INSURANCE SERVICE

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—W. A. Wallace's car was stolen and all week he kept in close touch with his insurance agent. Finally the abandoned car was spotted and a policeman went to check it out. By the time he got there it was gone again—but the cop didn't give up.

He kept checking and finally ran it down, just in time to see a young man jump out and run. A resident of the area came out to check the commotion in front of his house.

It was Wallace's insurance man, J. N. Trice. He promptly advised his client.

CARGO PASSENGERS TRAVEL IN STYLE

IF ANYONE were to hear that a ship featured an elevator, glassed-in sky lounge, sun-bathing deck, attractive dining room and radio and telephone in every stateroom, he would think immediately of a luxury liner, but he could also be listening to a description of the latest in freighter service, the President Jackson. It wasn't until the turn of the century that cargo vessels even put in spare cabins. The President Jackson, however, opens a new era in passenger accommodations. The vessel, "pilot ship" in a huge ship-replacement program of the American President Lines, also has air-conditioned rooms and special areas for deck sports, card-playing and writing. The vessel also has room for twelve passengers, which is the limit that a freighter can accommodate. Above that, it becomes a passenger liner, and must provide additional officers and crew. Passengers on the President Jackson, though, will tell you that she is in the luxury class.

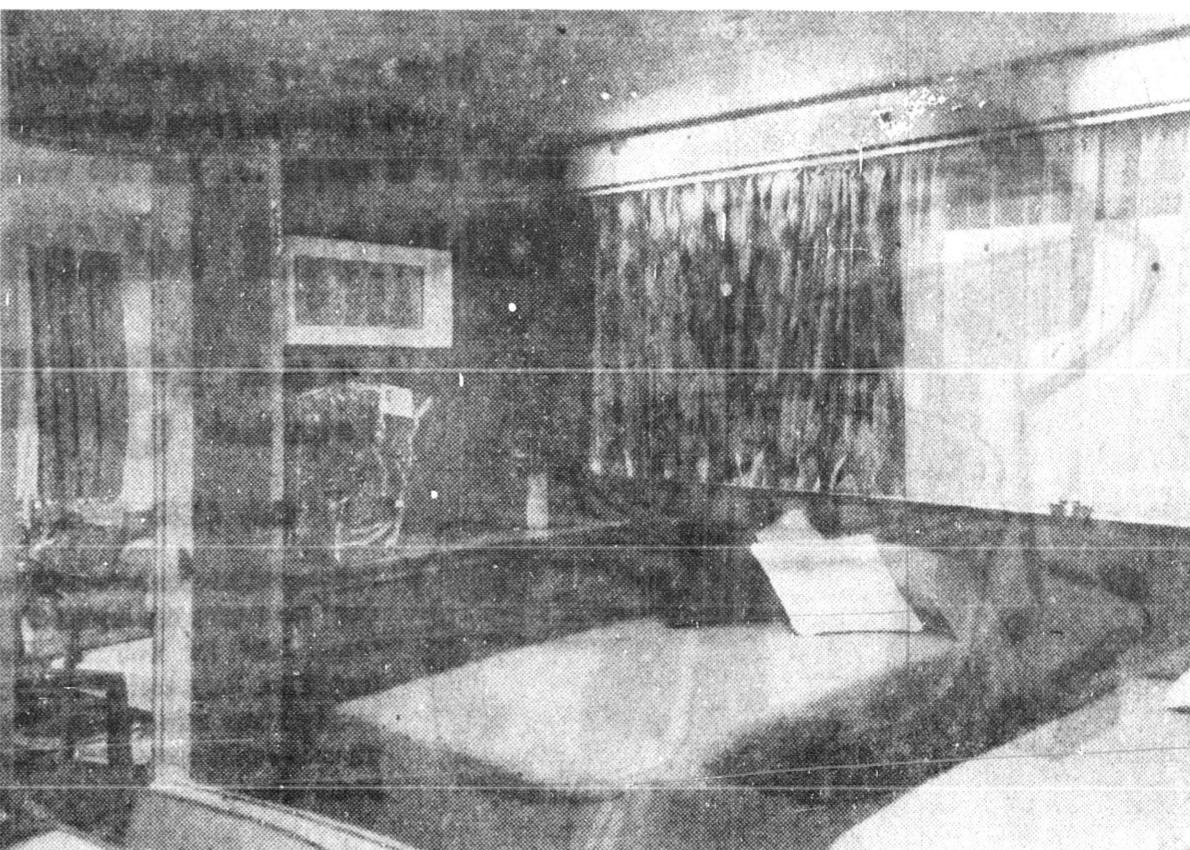

This is attractive passenger dining room, which, like other areas, is air-conditioned.

Automation Moves In On Automobile Assembly Lines

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Automation is moving in on that symbol of American manpower efficiency—the automobile assembly line.

Other huge machines that can dig and load six to eight tons of coal a minute are helping to revive the once ailing coal industry—although cutting working crews in half.

Makers of electrical equipment and aircraft are eyeing automated machines like those Chrysler has installed in its semi-automatic engine assembly line in Detroit.

Labor, management, politicians argue whether automation—the automatic control of machines and communications—will mean the loss of present jobs or, instead, will mean the creation of more jobs in the future through a generally higher standard of living.

But while they argue, the machine tool and electronics industries are coming up with new marvels of automatic or semi-automatic machines.

The Cross Co. of Detroit which installed its machines on the Chrysler line in the motor firm's new plant estimates the semi-automatic line saves the auto maker up to 25 per cent in assembly costs of its engines.

There are 150 workmen on the quarter-mile long line now, turning out 150 V-8 engines an hour. On the old assembly lines it took 200 men to turn out that many.

The new line has 280 operating stations. And at many stands a machine instead of a man.

Cylinder blocks are fed into one end of the assembly line by a machine, right cylinder heads at another point, left cylinder heads at a third. As these castings move along automatically, one engine part after another is added. At the end of the line completely assembled engines are removed for installation in new cars.

The Ford Motor Co.'s plant at Cleveland has a 500-foot automated production line for making engine blocks.

Ralph Cross, vice president of the Machine Tool Co., says other auto manufacturers and household appliance makers are looking into the possibilities of similar semi-automated assembly lines.

In some of the nation's coal mines, meanwhile, some new miners are moving in to replace older forms of mechanization. They are reported cutting work crews from 17 men to seven or eight.

The new 24-foot long boring-type continuous miners can dig and load as much as 1,085 tons in a single seven-hour shift. One mining equipment maker, the Goodman Manufacturing Co. of Chicago, says its largest borer cuts a path 8 feet high and 13 feet 2 inches wide.

It has four-armed rotors, interlocked in egg-beater fashion. Each arm has claws of hardened steel.

The boring arms cut two overlapping circles as they break out the coal. A rotating chain slices out the top and bottom sections between the arms.

Before the borers came along, some miners were already using a ripper type machine, only about one half as fast.

About 90 per cent of the nation's mines, however, continue to use the older methods—a machine to undercut the coal with explosives in holes drilled above the cut to bring down the coal. Another machine loads the coal into a shuttle car for transfer to the main mine haulage system.

Thanks in part to the steady trend toward mechanization in recent years which has held down the once fast-rising price of coal, the coal industry is pulling out of a bad slump.

In 1948 nearly 600 million tons of bituminous coal was mined, but this dropped to less than 400 million last year. The revival this year is putting output about 21 per cent above last year.

One of the big factors this year has been the growing demand of Europe for American coal to keep its steel mills going at a record pace.

L. C. Campbell, president of the National Coal Assn., hails production strides attending mechanization in the past 20 years and adds, "and the end is not in sight."

National Homes Award

Vince Penza (left) of the building firm of Penza & Pieper is shown receiving an award from James Price, president of National Homes, in recognition of the local firm's record of having built more than 100 National Homes. The award to Penza & Pieper was made at the Conrad Hilton hotel in Chicago during the National Homes convention.

While the award was for the erection of 100 National Homes, the Jacksonville firm has erected a considerably larger number during a period of two years. Penza & Pieper have just opened a sales office at 202 Gibson Building.

The all-new 1956 National Homes will feature individualized design, masonry exteriors, and brand-name equipment by the nation's leading manufacturers. Mr. Penza said upon his return from Chicago. The convention also made plans for celebrating the production early next year of National Homes' 100,000th house.

'Reaction' Secret To Oklahoma's Football Success

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—This will come a bit late for 26 consecutive opponents, but you want to know the real secret of Oklahoma university's football success?

It's reaction.

"Barring mistakes and poor physical condition, football games are won by teams that react the fastest," Coach Bud Wilkinson of the undefeated Sooners said.

"We are doing very well in this department."

The Sooners go after their 27th straight victory this Saturday when they play host to Iowa State. They've already wrapped up a bid to the Orange Bowl and were voted the No. 1 team in the nation in the Associated Press poll of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Wilkinson was being quizzed on the team speed that has bewildered so many opponents this year.

He said he didn't think his players were any bigger or tougher than many of the teams they played; they just reacted better.

"Speed is a very misleading word," Wilkinson said. "In football, the speed that is important is in a player's reaction to a different situation. As a team, we're reacting well, but I'm sure there are squads who might possibly outrun us in a foot race."

Dallas Ward, coach of a rugged Colorado team that was beaten 56-21 by the Sooners reacted like this after that game:

"This is the fastest football team I've ever seen on any one afternoon."

O! Swami Picks Illini To Whip Wisconsin, Ohio Over Iowa This Weekend

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN CHICAGO (AP)—Illinois (over Michigan) and Detroit (over Marquette) were the only teams to surprise the frequently-ambushed O! Swami last week.

With a season mark of 33-21 for .611, he holds on to his turban for another whirl:

Ohio State 20, Iowa 14—The Hawkeyes, fresh from a 20-0 conquest of Minnesota, are at top strength but it is doubtful they have the over-all manpower to cope with the Big Ten leader and game-breaker Howie Cassady, who has scored 11 times this season. But maybe you'd better flip a coin on this one.

Illinois 19, Wisconsin 14—if the Illini lose much of their edge from that Michigan upset, the Badgers are equipped to knock them off in a hurry. Illinois hasn't beaten Wisconsin at Madison since 1943, but it has the speed to do it this time if Coach Ray Elliot can get the team buoyed up. Should be Illinois running vs. Wisconsin's passing. Take your pick.

Michigan 20, Indiana 7—the Wolverines return to their own against Iowa.

Report Fans Seek New Grid Coach At Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Fred Kent, chairman of the Florida Board of Control, said Wednesday "a fairly substantial number of people have approached me with the suggestion that we should have a new football coach" at the University of Florida.

But he said the board had not considered the matter and that no one had suggested buying up the contract of Coach Bob Woodruff.

He said in a statement that "except for this newspaper article I have heard nothing about buying up Coach Woodruff's contract. A fairly substantial number of people have approached me with the suggestion that we should have a new coach, but I have not found any organized support for such action." Any statement that we have done so is unequivocally untrue."

Kent, a Jacksonville attorney, would not elaborate on the statement.

Tuesday night at Gainesville Woodruff lashed out at printed reports that there was a move to buy up the year of his contract.

"I believe that these are vicious rumors printed in the paper that can't be backed up," he told about 200 members of the Gainesville quarterback club. "People do that!"

Schmidt said the rival bowl teams could select motion pictures of any two games involving the respective opponent.

All eligible teams still in contention in the two conferences have agreed to the exchange, Schmidt said.

There was no set policy in past years and invariably each conference's representatives was forced to personally scout more than one team when the bowl race remained wide open.

The report originated in a column by Johnny Hendrix, sports editor of the Augusta Chronicle, who said a wealthy backer of Florida football—who Hendrix didn't name—offered to put up $1,000 toward buying up the final year of Woodruff's $17,000 a year contract.

This is the fastest football team I've ever seen on any one afternoon."

Dick Kazmaier, Princeton All-American halfback of 1951, is the most accurate passer in Ivy League history. He completed 172 of 289 passes, 35 going for touchdowns.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Warriors opened the home part of their National Basketball Assn. scheduled Wednesday night by downing Minneapolis 117-106. Neil Johnston, with 29 points, paced the Warriors, while Clyde Lovellette had 21 for Minneapolis.

Indiana's improving quarterback Chick Cichowski, is the new Big Ten passing leader in a comparative grading system. Purdue's Len Dawson is more than 200 yards ahead of Cichowski in yardage, but the Hoosiers has a fine completion average of .608 on 31 hits in 51 tries.

Dawson, although a dozen of his passes were intercepted, remains the total offense leader with 612 Fred's approval shortly.

The athletic board, composed of faculty members, a student representative and two alumni members, resumed hearings Wednesday on the selection of a successor to Sundt. Committee Chairman Prof. Marvin A. Schaars said no final choice had been made, but added that "the field has been narrowed considerably."

Schaars said the committee has to have a candidate ready

New York Stock Market

FEED GRAINS LAG AS REST OF MARKET MAKES SMALL GAINS

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP) — The Stock Market with its fourth strong drive ahead Wednesday reached a new recovery high since the great break that followed news of the President's illness.

The market was at an historic peak when it began its reaction on Sept. 26. It hit bottom Oct. 11. Wednesday it has regained two-thirds of that fall, as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks which Wednesday advanced $1.60 and closed at $175.40.

Wednesday's rise was due almost entirely to the strength of individual issues that shot ahead in response to dividend declarations or high earnings reports.

A typical situation was produced by General Motors. The new stock, resulting from a three-for-one split of the old, began trading Wednesday carrying with it an extra dividend of $1 declared Monday after the close. It was up 1% at 48%.

DuPont, which holds some 63 million shares of GM stock, shot ahead 11% at 241%.

The American Stock Exchange was mixed with a slightly higher tendency. Volume came to 810,000 shares as compared with 760,000 shares Monday.

Corporate bonds were up. U. S. Government issues over the counter were lower.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (AP) — Much larger than expected receipts dumped butcher hogs 25 to 50 cents Wednesday to a new average low price since 1944. Sows also lost 25 to 50 cents.

Saleable receipts at 18,000 head were $4,000 above the advance estimate. Most 220 to 280 pound butchers were at $12.75 to $13.00 and 180 to 220 pounds at $13.00 to $13.50. Sows sold from $11.00 to $12.25.

The practical top was $13.50 although a 14 head lot sold for $13.60. A renewed drop in live hog prices with the average for butchers not officially less than 30 head sold at a new low since 1944, contrasted at least 30 head to the easier tone both then and now.

Wificance was government sale of two million bushels of milo to exporters at Gulf of Mexico ports.

Rye followed wheat higher. Farmers had put 6,400,000 bushels of rye under government loan by Oct. 15, up 3,400,000 bushels from the same date a year ago.

Heavy hog receipts tended to depress lard futures. Loose lard was off 1% at 10% cents a pound, which still represented a gain of 1% cent for the week so far.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Rails and selected industrials led the Corporate Bond Market higher Wednesday in fairly active trading.

U. S. Treasury bonds sagged for the second successive trading day in the over-the-counter market. There were minus signs, ranging up to 14-32, all through the list. There was no trading election day but losses Monday ranged up to 11-32.

Dealers in government bonds described the downturn as a technical readjustment. There was some profit taking in evidence. Traders said another factor was a seasonal scarcity of corporate funds, withdrawn by the big companies for paying dividends at this time.

Community Chest Still Short Of Goal

Flames Damage 5 Room House On E. Railroad St.

The kitchen of a five-room house at 1202 East Railroad street, occupied by Ethel Lawson, was badly damaged by fire at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The fire had gained considerable headway when firemen reached the scene but the firefighters soon had a large line and three booster lines playing water on the flames.

Before the fire was brought under control the kitchen was badly damaged, together with a nearby shed. Two sheds across an alley from the burning house also caught fire but the blazes were quickly extinguished by the firemen.

No estimate was made of the loss.

Youth Week To Be Celebrated In This City

The week of Nov. 27 through Dec. 3, has been set aside as Children and Youth Week, in order to take time to focus more attention upon the needs and problems of children.

Executive officers of the Community Council have responded to many requests made by member organizations. A program is being developed to complete the observance of this week. It is hoped that by concentrating attention, ways of improving activities and increasing the effectiveness of services may result. The devotion to emphasize children and youth, is, in part, a response to a nation-wide recognition of the responsibility of each community in delinquency prevention.

Special articles and publications of various kinds relating to different phases of the subject of youth will be on display at the Public Library for persons to obtain who are interested.

Speaker local efforts to arouse adult interest and awareness of youth activities and problems, will be a Youth Leadership Workshop at the Y.M.C.A. Youth Center. The purpose of the Workshop is to acquaint citizens directly with activities at the Center and provide an opportunity for people in the community to talk with community officials and to share in planning ideas for approaching the solution of problems and improving the effectiveness and quality of services.

Some of the organizations that have begun to cooperate in making this possible are: Y.M.C.A., Illinois College Program in Community Development, Public Library, Morgan County Child Welfare Services, Kiwanis, Rotary, Morgan County Court, Exchange Club, Elks, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Social Progressive Club, United Council of Church Women, Ministerial Association, American Legion Auxiliary.

John Reardon, Local Resident, Dies Wednesday

Merle Wade, general chairman of the Morgan County Community Chest Campaign, said Wednesday that it appeared that the campaign would fall far short of its goal of $44,770. To date a total of only $31,000 has been raised.

"Frankly, we are very disturbed at the response to the Red Feather campaign this year," Wade said. "While we realize that Jacksonville has been beset with a large number of campaigns during the past few years, we still feel that the level of giving is far too low."

"As the campaign stands now, we can anticipate only about $5,000 still to come in from unreported cards. This means the Red Feather campaign will, at the most, raise only about $36,000. This is less than has been raised for many years."

"If the people in Morgan county and Jacksonville can't support the Community Chest any better than they have thus far, it is obvious that the agencies will be forced to either curtail their services or put on their own individual campaigns."

Wade gave the following breakdown by divisions:

Division	Goal	Raised %
Special Gifts	$26,459	$19,320 73

Clubs & Organizations	817	533 66
-----------------------	-----	--------

National Firms	3,188	1,510 45
----------------	-------	----------

Commercial	2,771	1,468 53
------------	-------	----------

Industrial	3,691	1,416 39
------------	-------	----------

Institutions	4,288	3,028 70
--------------	-------	----------

Residential	1,859	2,439 130
-------------	-------	-----------

Large donations, previously unreported include: Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, $500; MacMurray College employees, $370; Jacksonville State Hospital employees, $305; and Nesco employees, $118.

LIECHTENSTEN PRINCE

DAYTON, Ohio (P)—A prince from one of the world's smallest nations arrived here and faced the same old question.

"Where is Liechtenstein?"

Prince Emanuel patiently describes his country this way:

"It's a fully independent state—third smallest in the world. It has 14,000 inhabitants, covers 62 square miles and lies between Switzerland and Austria."

The bachelor prince, who says there are "at least 18 or 19 ahead of me in succession to the throne," is touring the United States. He said one of his biggest thrills on his long boat and bus trip around this country was meeting an Arizona girl who had once been in Liechtenstein.

"Generally no one has ever heard of it," he remarked wistfully.

POLITICAL PARALLEL?

The visit of Stephen A. Mitchell, former Democratic National chairman, to Jacksonville on November 10th to inaugurate a series of Illinois College lectures on public affairs calls to mind a similar lecture, made from the same platform in Jones Chapel early in the year 1948, by a then comparatively unknown Chicago lawyer named Adlai Stevenson.

At the time Stevenson accepted the invitation to speak here that year he had not announced himself as a candidate for the governorship of Illinois, though his name had been mentioned in that connection. When he did speak here, he had taken his first plunge into politics and was an avowed candidate for the Democratic nomination as Governor. Later, of course, he won election, served as Governor, and then won national prominence as Democratic candidate for President of the United States.

Stevenson's choice for chairman of his party during the critical campaign year was Stephen A. Mitchell, who served in that capacity with distinction even though his standard-bearer went down to defeat at the hands of General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

And now Mitchell, himself, is being discussed as one of the leading possibilities in the Democratic party for the governorship. He has not announced himself, but it seems to us that he is following Adlai's footsteps.

NEW YORK (AP)—Everytime an Eskimo visits Manhattan and opens his mouth to comment, the first thing he says is:

"Katchoo-o-o-o!"

This isn't a form of polar greeting. It is just a sign—sure as sneezing!—the fellow is coming down with a virus.

Happens with every touring Eskimo. Let him take one look at the subway and before he can even brag they got better looking igloos above ground back home, down he comes with the sniffles.

The people who come here to admire the skyscrapers in our town remain to enjoy our viruses. As a matter of fact the residents here no longer boast about the skyscrapers. That is taken as rather early century talk.

Your real true-blue New Yorker, full of civic pride, would rather

Irresponsible Child Isn't Cured by Mere Forgiveness

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Should we punish a child who has confessed wrongdoing—and declared his remorse? The mother of an 11-year-old boy wants to know. Early this month, he twice played hooky from school. Now he confessed and protested his remorse. His mother thinks that his conscience has punished him enough; his father doesn't. For two weeks, he's banned all use of the new bicycle Edward took on his truancies. Both the boy and his mother resent this punishment as too drastic. She asks, "What do you think?"

I think Edward's remorse can't be too real if he resents the atomization asked by his father.

And that his mother would do well to register the reality that Edward has incurred debt to other people. It can't be discharged by the phrase "I'm sorry." Like other debts, moral ones can only be paid by sacrificing action.

Early this month, Edward decided to behave like a special person, didn't he? He helped himself twice to privileges which other children haven't done themselves. By allowing his parents to believe him in school when he wasn't, he ducked his responsibility to them.

By this unfair treatment of his group and his family, he's incurred moral debt to them. The fact that we say, "We forgive you, Edward," does not change his position as our debtor. All it does is pile more obligation to us on Edward.

If we care about his self-respect, that's not what we want at all. We want him free of obligation. And we want him to free himself from it.

That's exactly what his father is trying to help him do. He's trying to arrange things so Edward can look us straight in the eye again.

I suggest that this loving purpose be explained to his son—and that his wife support it.

We mothers have many tricks to keep children irresponsible.

One is substituting our "forgiveness" for their own atonement for wrongdoing. Any prison warden can tell us about this maternal trick of depriving children of the chance to pay their own penalties by saying, "Mommy understands. Mommy forgives you, dear."

So let's not kid ourselves that keeping Edward dependent on our personal pardon is a loving trick. It is not. It just makes personal domination of him easy as pie.

By taking over the job of exonerating him ourselves, we can keep him our baby forever so that he never grows up, and never learns how to exonerate himself.

The World Today

By JAMES MARTOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—One more battle in America's most sensational social revolution—the effort to wipe out racial segregation—has been fought and won.

The Supreme Court Monday ordered an end to segregation in public parks and public playgrounds in Maryland and on public golf courses in Georgia.

While this action was less spectacular than the court's ruling in May 1954—when it said segregation in public schools must end—it was far-reaching nevertheless.

The court now apparently has said—although it didn't use this exact language—that segregation in the United States must end in any place or facility that is paid for by the public, that is, paid for with tax money.

The court ruling did not say Negroes cannot be excluded from a recreational area or any other facility—like a beach, or playground, or golf course—that is privately owned and operated by an individual or limited group of individuals.

It seems certain that in the end Monday's decision in the Maryland and Georgia cases will have to apply to all states and cities. The classic example of this kind of thing was in the high court's ban on segregation in public schools.

In that case the court ruled directly against only a handful of states but it soon became clear the decision applied to all states, although not all states have yet complied.

The court has consistently been following this principle in cases involving facilities that are supported by public tax money.

That "separate but equal" arrangement for Negroes are no longer enough and are unconstitutional.

The fight against other forms of segregation is going forward. Some years ago the Supreme Court banned segregation on interstate buses—those crossing state lines.

Now Negroes are fighting against segregation on buses which operate entirely within a city or state. A test case was made against segregation on buses operated by a utility company in Columbia, S. C.

The U. S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., with jurisdiction over South Carolina, ordered segregation banned on the Columbia buses. In doing so the appellate court was following the lead of the Supreme Court in the school case.

It said that even though accommodations for Negroes on the buses—where they had to ride separate from the whites—were equal to those of the whites, they were not enough.

The NAACP was asked Monday if now it intends to fight against segregation in privately owned movie theaters and restaurants. A spokesman for the NAACP was rather vague on this. He indicated that may be done latter but emphasized that right now the NAACP is concentrating mainly on getting an end to public school segregation in those states which are fighting or stalling on the Supreme Court decision.

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

Pernicious Anemia Now

Yields to Vitamin B12

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

The first and perhaps the best accurate description of pernicious anemia was given by an English physician, Thomas Addison, in 1855. It is so good that I should like to quote part of what he said:

"It makes its approach in so slow and insidious a manner that the patient can hardly fix a date to the earliest feeling of that languor which is shortly to become so extreme."

"The countenance gets pale, the whites of the eyes become pearly, the general frame flabby rather than wasted, the pulse perhaps larger, but remarkably soft and compressible, and occasionally with slight jerk, especially under the slightest excitement."

"THERE IS INCREASING indisposition to exertion, with an uncomfortable feeling of faintness or breathlessness in attempting it; the heart is readily made to palpitate; the whole surface of the body presents a blanched, smooth, and waxy appearance; the lips, gums, and tongue seem bloodless, the flabbiness of the solids increases, the appetite fails, extreme languor and faintness supervene, breathlessness and palpitation are produced by the most trifling exertion or emotion; some slight edema (dropsy) is probably perceived about the ankles; the debility becomes extreme—the patient can no longer rise from bed; he falls into a prostrate and half-torpid state, and at length expires; nevertheless, to the very last, and after a sickness of several months' duration, the bulkiness of the general frame and the amount of obesity often present a most striking contrast to the failure and exhaustion observable in every other respect."

"UNTIL 1926, this disease was highly fatal, not too uncommon, and its treatment wholly unsatisfactory. Many of the finest medical investigators were baffled. Finally, as a result of studies in dogs and patients, the treatment with liver was established.

Today, patients with pernicious anemia almost always can be successfully treated. Recently, with the crystallization of Vitamin B12 the results of treatment have been still further improved.

IT IS NOW RARE, in fact, to see someone with the advanced type of pernicious anemia such as that which Addison described. The conquest of pernicious anemia is indeed the combined triumph of experimental medicine and the clinical sense of highly trained physicians.

One other point: Mrs. K and two or three others asked whether pernicious anemia can develop into leukemia. So far as I know, it cannot and this would certainly be one thing which a person with pernicious anemia need not worry about.

Proceeding clinically, Bogart analyzed how he became a character: "By doing as I damn well pleased. I defend my right to cut a caper if I feel like it. I see nothing wrong in taking a panda to a night club, along with another friend and his pants."

"The only way to get publicity is to be an exciting enough personality. Then people will write about you."

Proceeding clinically, Bogart analyzed how he became a character: "By doing as I damn well pleased. I defend my right to cut a caper if I feel like it. I see nothing wrong in taking a panda to a night club, along with another friend and his pants."

"This town ain't what it used to be," he commented sourly. "You used to be able to have fun. Now there are too many creeps who want to make trouble for you."

The next-to-the-last exhibit is an American automatic machine making nails at the rate of thousands an hour. Little bags of nails are to be given away as souvenirs in nail-hungry countries.

The final exhibit is an American middle-class, mass-produced house with all modern conveniences, for open inspection.

LEGENDS THROUGHOUT THE EXHIBIT and leaflets to be handed to visitors will explain what "People's Capitalism" is.

They will emphasize American individualism, its opportunity, freedom of labor, freedom to own property, freedom to engage in business, freedom to own a share of American industrial wealth through stock holdings and to receive a share of its profits.

"Every time the Soviet propaganda machine thunders against capitalism," said Reppier in presenting his "People's Capitalism" idea to the business paper editors, "our obvious cue is to thunder back that a completely new kind of capitalism has come about which is neither colonial nor feudalistic. Further, that this dynamic new capitalism is already doing things for its people that under communism have remained empty promises for 35 years."

They find the churches have good social programs for married couples and teen-agers but nothing at all for the unmarried thirtysomething men and women who are secretly yearning to meet the right man or the right woman.

And what are the married women who should be busy maturing about these bachelors and career girls? Not much, apparently.

This isn't a job for social agencies or churches nearly so much as it is a job for married women.

Toss 'People's Capitalism' Phrase in Reds' Direction

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A campaign to use "People's Capitalism" as a new name for the American economic system in its fight against communism has been launched here.

It was formally unveiled by Theodore S. Reppier, president of the public service Advertising Council of America at a meeting of the National Conference of Business Paper Editors.

The idea behind this new crusade is that the simple word "capitalism" has come under bad repute abroad. It is the number one target of the Communists in all their propaganda.

In Europe, capitalism is the name given to the feudalistic cartel and monopoly system. In Africa and Asia, capitalism has become synonymous with colonialism—the exploitation of backward countries.

Trying to call modern capitalism the American way of life, free enterprise, the profit system, anti-trust economics or consumerism has not gone over.

The Comin line is still that "decadent Wall Street capitalism" is the enemy and will ultimately be defeated.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

A good many American communities have just gone through a dilemma from which Russian Foreign Minister Molotov would have spared them if he'd been the boss over here.

People in these communities had to digest a bunch of personal records, solemn or farcical election campaign statements, and try to select some employees, commonly called officials, to look after public affairs.

Molotov was pained. In Russia he said, "we conduct elections by single lists and we are not sorry about that at all." It builds up unity, he added. But certainly wasn't going to stand by and see reunification of Germany through an election which did not build up unity. Before that, he'd let Germany stay dismembered forever.

He might have added that the Russian government could not sponsor an election system in Germany which it wouldn't dare extend to the peoples it rules.

He wouldn't understand, either, how the United States was founded in such disunity that many of the original colonies refused to join it for a long time, nor how so many people came from Europe to practice the disunity which they were not allowed at home.

He might sneer at the lack of "efficiency" of the American way, and wonder how such people as those elected Tuesday could actually be members of a system which has produced more good for more people in a shorter length of time than any other political system in history.

Tables centered with tall lighted tapers featured autumn colors and were flanked with leaves, small pumpkins, and fall flowers. The invitation was given by the club chaplain, Mrs. Claude Martin.

Following the dinner, a program of vocal music was presented by Alis Eaton of Havana in costume accompanied by Mrs. Lyle Anno, also of Havana. The two were accompanied here by a friend, Mrs. Binder, Havana.

The guests were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Joseph Smith. The entertainment was introduced by Mrs. Earl Young of the program committee. Seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Edwards, Mrs. E. W. LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Rabbits brought into the state by sportsmen to train beagles are spreading out over Michigan in such numbers that the State Conservation Department is worried.

The animals aren't the ordinary cottontails but a strain of San Juan rabbits—the type that swept through Australia. The big rabbit burrows deep—from two to eight feet—and has been known to undermine buildings. He also can do a great deal of damage to crops.

Education Week Themes By Dist. 117 Pupils

(Schools of District 117, including Jacksonville, South Jacksonville, Woodson and Murrayville, are observing American Education Week (Nov. 6-12) with special activities. These representative articles on the subject, "Schools—Your Investment In America," were selected by a committee of teachers.)

SCHOOLS—YOUR INVESTMENT IN AMERICA

I think schools in America are important because the standard of knowledge is quite a bit higher than a few years ago. People need to have the intelligence to operate the new modern machines and to live in this modern day.

Tax payers pay quite a bit of money for schools. Because of that they also like to see better schools. It would be quite bad for me to see America without schools.

Alice McIlrath

SCHOOLS AS AN INVESTMENT IN BETTER LIVING

Many people today do not stop to think of the importance of schools in developing better living. People take schools for granted. Some complain about having to pay out money for schools. If these people would just stop and think a little, I'm sure they wouldn't mind it so much.

When our parents and our grandparents went to school, they didn't get a well rounded training, and they didn't have all the things necessary for a good education. For these reasons they think that we should have all these extra things that we enjoy today.

First of all let's look at the economic standpoint. Children who go to school feel it's just an everyday ordeal. They don't realize that right now they are being prepared to go into the world alone without the support of their parents to make a living. Then children graduate from high school generally if their parents can afford it, they go to college. Here they reach an even higher standard of learning. After they graduate from college, they go out into the world and use their knowledge to earn a living.

There are many fields from which to choose a career such as teaching, medicine, law, art, music, and many more. People are receiving more wages for their labor now than in the past. This has upped the standard of living. There are more jobs now so that few have to be out of work. These improved conditions have come about because education has made it possible to enjoy better living.

CHARACTER BUILDING IN OUR SCHOOLS

In schools today we learn and understand how to get along with people, to respect them and their belongings.

We learn to work with a group because there are many group activities.

While we are learning to get along together we are also helping build a stronger nation. Some day we will be the adults of our country and we will have to work together to keep our nation strong and independent.

It is also preparing us for better adult living. Someday most of us will be married and have children. One of the important things in marriage is getting along, having fun, and discussing problems together.

Members of the club have been asked to participate in the school survey work. Stamps for the Wounded is a general federation project. Members are asked to save stamps and turn in at any meeting.

A Revival is in progress this week at the Church of God. Rev. J. E. Williamson of Frankfort is the speaker. Services are nightly starting at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Herbert Cherry is the church pastor.

The BYF of the Baptist church met Sunday night at the church. The program subject was Sin and Forgiveness. Thelma Dudley was program leader and Mary Price had devotions on the topic. Habits. Plans were discussed for Vesper Service Dec. 4 at 7 in the evening. The public is invited. The Vespers will be sponsored by the BY and Guild Girls.

The Ashland high school senior class that sponsored a hamburger fry recently report a profit of $134. Seniors are busily getting out invitations for graduations and being measured for their caps.

SCHOOLS—YOUR INVESTMENT IN AMERICA

Better schools help our younger generation to become good citizens of tomorrow. They learn to work and play together. Through learning they will be able to keep up the good standards of our country. Our schools teach them to maintain our freedom and peace by learning to understand other nations better. They learn how other people live, learn their customs, and their languages. They learn to cooperate and to become good leaders.

By means of good schools children of today learn their subject matter, such as mathematics, to help them to be able to go out on their own and get good jobs and be reliable. Good learning will help them to climb to the top in their professions.

We hope that the schools will keep the good reputation which they now possess.

SCHOOLS — OUR INVESTMENT IN AMERICA

Long ago people came to America for different reasons. One of them was education. Now everyone is entitled to an education. Our president and other government officials have had to be educated.

Now, as the future leaders of America, we are taught so that we are able to be good citizens when we are older. We also need education when we want employment. A high school diploma helps.

There are many things that lead up to good character. Some of them are to be responsible, be polite, and improve your vocabulary so that you may better express yourself.

Largest Strike In Shoe Industry's History Deadlocks

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—No early end was in sight today to the largest strike in the history of America's shoe industry. The strike has idled about 26,000 workers in six Midwestern states.

No union-company meetings are scheduled in the wage dispute and both sides said they were holding to their latest offers. AFL and CIO workers struck 41 plants of the giant International Shoe Co. Monday with 17,000 of some 30,000 production employees walking out. Some 9,000 Brown Shoe Co. workers in 20 plants were called out Tuesday.

Brown Shoe Co. Tuesday charged the unions with failure to bargain in good faith and of failure to file required notices of intention to strike in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act in a complaint filed with the National Labor Relations Board regional office here.

"We wanted to call in the conciliators," he declared, "but the company wouldn't go along with us." Ben Berk, regional director for the AFL Boot and Shoe Workers, said there was a delay in notifying the federal labor conciliation service on intent to strike, "but this was because the company (Brown) refused to have any part of the conciliation service."

Berk said the unions "bargained in good faith all the way."

Ralph Kennedy, regional NLRB director, said his office would make an investigation. International Shoe has filed no such complaint.

Both firms have offered a 10 per cent pay raise in three annual installments. The unions want a 12 per cent boost in two years and a pension plan study. Workers now average $1.22 an hour.

The final offers by the companies just before the strike were announced by them as being for a two-year contract with a 7½ per cent general wage increase, 5 per cent of it immediately.

The firms have plants in small cities of Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas and Kentucky. Brown also has factories in Tennessee and another in Indiana involved in the strike.

About 12 non-union International Shoe plants continued in full operation. International said its plants at Batesville and Conway, Ark., were in partial operations with non-union workers crossing picket lines.

A spokesman for Brown Shoe said employees of some union factories came to work Tuesday and at last report were operating normally, "despite instructions to the contrary by regional representatives of the two unions."

The firm wouldn't give the location of these factories.

TWO women waited under the store canopy, heavy coats making both look shapeless. One was around 50, a grim-jawed woman with gray hair that held no softness. Yet her deep brown eyes were strangely gentle and Gene was struck by a likeness between her and the girl who stood beside her. His heart lifted at the sight of Ermine, as it had each time he had seen her. Vic came up on the porch and tried vainly to stomp the gumbo off his boots.

"I got the key, Mom," he said and glanced at Gene.

"Is this one of . . . them?" Mrs. Frazin asked and Gene flushed at the contempt in her voice.

"Yes, come to make sure everything is all right."

Gene caught the girl's eyes upon him. Her glance slid away and a slight touch of color came to the olive cheeks. He wondered for a wild moment if this was the beginning of an interest in him, but the boy's shrill statement shattered the thought.

"Maw, I'm going to be an outlaw."

Mrs. Frazin's hand caught the boy alongside the ear. The sharp, unexpected blow made Art cry and then look at his mother in surprise.

"What was that for, Maw?"

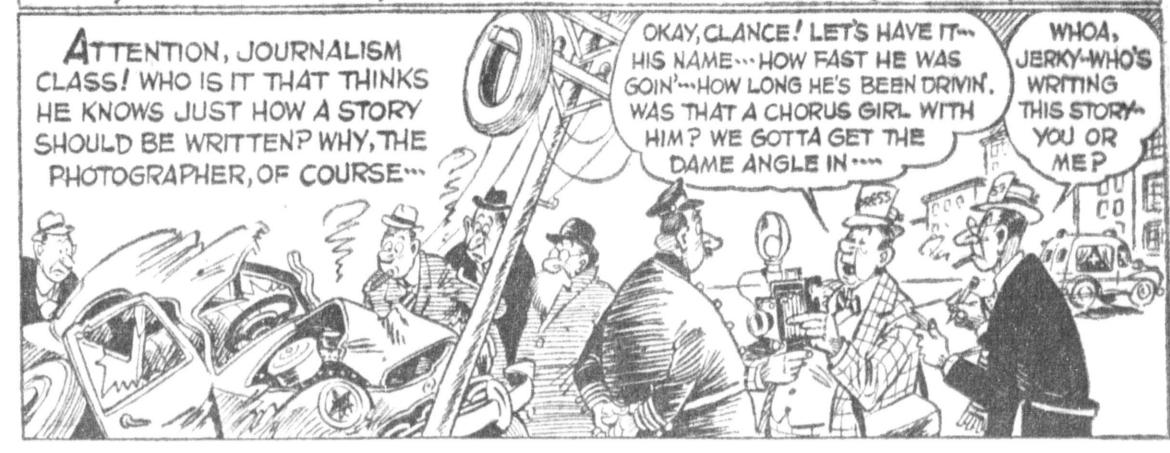

"That was for wanting to be a scamp, thief and a dirty, cowardly killer."

"Mom!" Vic hastily turned from the door. He looked apprehensively at Gene. The woman continued to glare and Gene felt

"She's right," he said, voice muffled. His attention swung to the boy. "There's not a worse kind of a life than this, kid. When we're gone, forget us, or you'll be sorry the rest of your days."

Art stared. Mrs. Frazin took a deep breath, turned on her heel and stalked into the store. Vic following her. Ermine gave Gene a long, underhanded look, a touch of warmth in her eyes. But it was only fleeting and she walked into the store as though he didn't exist.

VIVIAN McLEAR had been up since just after sunrise, prepared her breakfast and then had started the day's work, finishing the dress for Mrs. Majora.

"I heard about Tommy Rikes,"

"Alone?"

"No one will hurt me."

"I'll not take a chance."

She tried to protest but he would not listen. They fought the mud to the street directly across from the livery stable.

"I can take care of myself."

She walked out on the porch, leaving Vic worriedly shaking his head. In her haste she did not see Dan Murdoch and she practically walked into him.

"Dan, I'm going to see if Ava needs anything."

"Alone?"

"I'll not take a chance."

She tried to protest but he would not listen. They fought the mud to the street directly across from the livery stable.

THEY soon reached the Rikes house, across the muddy street from the Preston's. Dan knocked on the door. He heard footsteps and then the door was thrown open.

Tex Darrow stood framed. He scowled at Dan and his hard, black eyes skipped to Vivian. Surprise flashed over his face. He grinned widely as Vivian gasped.

"Tex!"

Dan wheeled around. Her face had grown pale and she had lifted her hand to her mouth, her fingers pressing again her lips.

She was like a person who suddenly looked upon disaster and knew there was no escape. Tex stepped out on the porch, his hand extended to Vivian, a cynical pleasure in his expression.

"A surprise, Belle! It's a long way . . . and a long time . . . from Wichita."

Ermine placed two spoons of
